

Bleica: Slight Obsession

Bleica: Slight Obsession — whatever that may mean. It can be intriguing, playful, absurd, even a little wild — yet it can also be unsettling, filled with anxiety, unbearably tedious, and at times almost unreadable. It might be funny — but only up to a certain point.

In these strange forms, barely controlled compulsions take shape: an almost uncontrollable experience of meaninglessness, fear, frustration, paralyzing repetition, overlapping interests, and obsessions. Obsessions are something that shakes the very core of one's personality. They can be radical, deviant, and often manifest as repetitive automatisms.

This kind of anachronism appears both in childish play and in the neurotic “compulsion to repeat.” This exhausting, continuous, and obsessive process intensifies the strongest drives, the most neurotic forms of stubbornness, subjective aversions, and the endless doubt toward everything given.

Opening Reception: May 16, 2025, 7:00 PM

Exhibition Dates: May 16 – June 6, 2025

Venue: Szaber Gallery, Wrocławska 56, Kraków

Poster: Olivia Rosa

Bartosz Wajer — @chicco_gallery